"GOOD FOOD REVOLUTION" NEEDS YOUR HELP TO RAISE $17,000 IN 30 DAYS TO TRANSFORM NEIGHBORHOOD INTO A GREEN FOOD PARADISE

This is a historically unprecedented project in Ontario, California.

Community gardens solve environmental justice issues prevalent in suburbs. They give us the option of eating organic and sustainably-grown produce, reducing pollution and obesity.

Building a permanent, public safe-space for the community to organize and come together inspires us to expand our educational programs and create more community gardens throughout SoCal. People find value in producing and calling something their own. Gardens like this provide people with this opportunity. This reinforces our local economy, and has positive ramifications across a wide range of issues.

The center is a radically sustainable design, built from rammed earth, shipping containers, and recycled tires. A team of students has worked for 1.5 years to make this a reality now. We just need the final push from you!

Our hope is to set a precedent for other communities and make the dream of a community garden every mile a reality.
